

COLLEGE OF PRACTICAL HOMEOPATHY

Please note: this updated summary may be published as a whole separately from the full Institutional Report.

The College of Practical Homeopathy was first inspected by the British Accreditation Council for Independent Further and Higher Education in December 2008.

BAC's inspectors reported on an overall good level of provision in the College. They considered in particular that the learning resources were excellent and that the College was efficiently managed. Furthermore, there is an excellent system of student welfare which was reflected in the positive comments of the students, who especially appreciated the supportive atmosphere in the College.

The College of Practical Homeopathy was awarded accreditation in February 2009.
